Absolute Black is a dense, jet-black granite (geologically a fine-grained gabbro/dolerite) quarried in southern India, with major sources in Karnataka and the Warangal area of Telangana. Formed from slowly cooled iron- and magnesium-rich magma, it owes its uniform black color to dark minerals like pyroxene and plagioclase feldspar with almost no visible grain or movement. The trade name simply describes its defining quality: a near-perfectly solid, consistent black, prized for sleek modern countertops.

CARE & INSTALLATION

Clean with warm water and a stone-safe cleaner; wipe spills promptly and use trivets. Sealing needs depend on the selected stone and its use; confirm the care schedule with us. Slab movement and tone vary from swatches. Confirm the actual slab, finish and thickness before fabrication.
